

map created using QGIS and land use data from the city of Vienna (data.wien.gv.at) and street labels from OpenStreetMap (© OpenStreetMap contributors)

QGIS 2.0

A Free and Open Source
Geographic Information System

www.qgis.org

sponsored by

ASIA AIR SURVEY

About QGIS

QGIS is a user friendly Open Source Geographic Information System (GIS) licensed under the GNU General Public License. QGIS is an official project of the Open Source Geospatial Foundation (OSGeo). It runs on Linux, Unix, Mac OSX, Windows and Android and supports numerous vector, raster, and database formats and functionalities.

Features

QGIS provides a continuously growing number of capabilities provided by core functions and plugins. You can visualize, manage, edit, analyse data, and compose printable maps.

Learning QGIS

QGIS has an international support community of enthusiastic users, developers and supporters. To learn more there is a wealth of guides, tutorials, documentation and Planet QGIS blogs.

Get support

Do you plan to use QGIS in your company or organization, but worry about if there is enterprise support available? Visit qgis.org for a list of companies providing QGIS support and training.

... and more help

There are also several QGIS mailing lists, IRC channels, forums and user groups you can use to get help from fellow users and developers.

Supporting QGIS

QGIS is a volunteer driven project. We welcome contributions in the form of code contributions, bug fixes, bug reports, contributed documentation, advocacy and supporting other users on our mailing lists and gis.stackexchange.com. If you are interested in actively supporting the project, you can find more information on qgis.org. We also welcome financial contributions in the form of sponsoring and funding.

